CEJ LAUNCHES WEBSITE TO BOLSTER 'ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION DIALOGUE'

Centre for Environment Justice (CEJ) has launched its Environmental Protection Dialogue (EPD) website, in a significant move to enhance environmental conservation efforts in Zambia and beyond.

CEJ Executive Director, Maggie Mwape, said the newly launched website is poised to become a central hub for environmental advocacy, providing stakeholders with a comprehensive platform to engage with the EPD, access essential information, and register for the upcoming EPD2024 event.

Ms Mwape said the site promises to streamline the registration process for convening partners and offers visitors a detailed look at program agendas, guest speakers, and the overall structure of the EPD2024.

She emphasized CEJ's unwavering commitment to co-hosting the EPD alongside the Ministry of Green Economy and Environment.

The CEJ Executive Director said the collaboration underscores a shared dedication to promoting environmental justice, fostering meaningful dialogue, and implementing actionable changes for the betterment of communities and the environment at large.

Ms Mwape said the EPD website also serves as an archive, housing a wealth of resources from previous dialogues.

She said Stakeholders are encouraged to explore past events to gain insight into the evolution of the discussions and the significant strides made towards a sustainable future.

Highlighting the website's innovative features, Ms Mwape drew attention to the downloadable Strategy and Implementation Framework for EPD Resolutions from 2020 to 2023.

"This strategic document outlines a clear action plan to convert resolutions into practical projects, reinforcing the EPD's reputation as a catalyst for real-world environmental impact," she said.

As the CEJ navigates the complexities of environmental justice, Ms Mwape calls upon all stakeholders to delve into the website, utilize its resources, and join the collective mission to forge a sustainable and equitable future for everyone.

Ms Mwape expressed excitement for the official launch of EPD 2024, urging the public to stay tuned to the CEJ's website and social media channels for the upcoming announcement.

She invited colleagues, partners, and friends to spread the word and unite in leveraging dialogue, collaboration, and action to enact positive change and secure a prosperous future for generations to come.
